C. Listen to the passage and tell whether the following statements are true or false. (判断下列 句子是否符合你听到的短文内容,符合的用“T”表示,不符合的用“F”表示)

It was a cold morning after the winter vacation. Actually, it was my first day at my new school. I was walking slowly and worrying about lots of things. It was early and there weren't many people on the road. A girl on the bike passed me quickly. She was riding on ice when suddenly she fell off her bike a few steps in front of me. She was trying hard to get up but fell again. Without thinking, I went over and helped her stand up. She said, "Thank you," with a smile and then rode away. The words "Thank you" warmed me and this small event made me feel less nervous about my new school. Finally, I got to school. The teacher led me to the classroom and asked me to sit down beside a girl. I was so nervous. I knew some of the students were looking at me but I didn't dare to look at them. Soon the first class started. It was English. They used a textbook different from my old school and I didn't have a copy. As I was wondering what to do, a book appeared in front of me. "Let's share," the girl next to me said. "And hi, I'm Carrie." I looked up. It was the girl I helped that morning. What a surprise! From then on, we became good friends. She was my first and best friend at my new school. Helping her also helped me find a friend.

D. Listen to the passage and complete the following sentences. (听短文,完成下列内容。每空 格限填一词)

Every day, people pack their belongings and move to new places. Why do people move? Let's look at three important reasons people move.

Jobs

People move to find jobs and a better life. Sometimes, people move from countryside to cities to get a job. In 1990, about a quarter of the people in China lived in cities. Today, over half of the Chinese people live in cities. In the 1950s, people from Europe moved to Brazil to work in factories. And people travelled abroad to find new jobs and a better life around the world.

Services

When another city has good services, people want to move there. For example, families want to live in a city with good hospitals and schools. A city with good services may also be a cleaner and safer place to live in. Sometimes people move from a city to areas called suburbs. Suburbs are near the outside of a city. They are quiet and have wide streets. Suburbs have more space for schools, clinics, shopping malls, and zoos. Families with young children like to live in suburbs.

New Experiences

Finally, people move when they want a change in their lives. Sometimes, older people move to places with better weather. Some students go to universities in another country to learn about other places. Whatever the reason, people often move to find new experiences and a better life.

C. Listen to the dialogue and tell whether the following statements are true or false (判断下列句子是否符合你听到的内容, 符合的用“T”表示, 不符合的用“F”表示): (6分)

W: Good morning, Mr Johnson. How can I help you?

M: Well, I'd like to talk to you about Tim Bond, the manager.

W: What's the problem?

M: Since Sandy left the department, I feel like I've been asked to do all her work as well as mine. I have to attend too many meetings and work on unnecessary paperwork.

W: I'm sorry to hear that. But surely that showed Mr Bond trusted you.

M: Yes, but I don't feel good! Other clerks leave early, and they don't have such a lot of work to do.

W: Do you think it's because Mr Bond doesn't realize what you're doing? Have you approached Mr Bond about this problem?

M: I've tried but whenever I go to his office he is either in meetings, or he is never there.

W: Well, it would be better if you find him directly. Try to solve the problem yourself. Why don't you send an email asking for a meeting with him in private?

M: I'd be a bit worried. I don't know what to say!

W: Well, firstly, you'll need to plan what you are going to talk about before going ahead. You can always take notes as a reference. This shows that you have considered what you need to discuss.

M: OK. I'll send him an email now, and we'll see what happens from there. Thanks for your advice.

W: Good luck, and let us know the result.

D. Listen to the passage and complete the following sentences (听对话, 完成下列内容, 每空格限填一词): (10分)

We are going to graduate from school. All of us want to express thanks to our teachers. There are some suggestions.

Suggestion 1. Say something that is important to your teachers

Nowadays, the most annoying thing for teachers is that they don't know what the children are thinking so what they want is to tell the truth. It would be nice if every child could say a few words to the teachers.

Suggestion 2. Send a card to the teacher

As a teacher, the happiest thing is to see students become talents. So write a letter to your teacher and tell him about your situation about learning. When the teacher receives the letter, he must be very happy.

Suggestion 3. Get excellent grades and make teachers happy

The teachers are proud of good students and hope every student has a good future. Therefore, I think as a student, it is the most meaningful thing to study hard.

Suggestion 4. Send red pens to the teachers

Perhaps the teachers cannot accept expensive gifts, but sending some red pens to express gratitude is very suitable. When teachers correct students' homework, they certainly use a red pen. So a red pen is the most suitable present.

I arrived at the bus station early for London bus. It wouldn't leave until five to twelve. I pushed through the crowds, looking for somewhere to sit down. But a lot of people were standing about. There was also a party of schoolgirls. I could see teachers trying to keep them in order.

I stepped into the station café. I looked at the clock there. It was only twenty to twelve. I found a seat opposite a large mirror on the wall. Just then a friend of mine called Jim came in and sat with me.

"What time is your bus?" asked Jim. "Oh, there's plenty of time yet," I answered.

"Oh, I'll get you some more tea then," said Jim.

We talked while drinking. Then I looked at the clock again. "My God! The clock is going to backward?" I cried. "A few minutes ago it was twenty to twelve and now it's half past eleven."

"You are looking at the clock in the mirror," said Jim.

"Oh, I was so careless. The next bus was not leaving for another hour."

According to a study by Northumbria University, Newcastle, UK, giving up smoking is not only good for heart and lungs, and it's also good for human memory. It shows that stopping smoking can strengthen someone's ability to remember everyday things. The research looked at three groups of people—27 smokers, 18 ex-smokers and 24 people who had never smoked. They were all asked to remember to do several tasks in 15 different locations in a university for tests. For example, they had to check for text messages on their cell phone when they were getting close the library.

The study found that smokers could remember just 59% of the tasks; people who used to smoke but had now given up remembered 74%; and those who had never smoked managed to remember 81% of the tasks. The team is now planning to research how second-hand smoke can affect health and everyday memory.

Welcome to The Film Review Programme! Today we're reviewing some of this week's new films. Let's start with this week's likely hit, Jungle Fever. Some of you may remember last year's TV documentary film about a family of tigers in India. Well, this is an unusual cartoon based on that programme and I can report that it's great fun for people of any age.

Don't miss Swim!, a comedy which takes a look at learning to swim as an adult. It's about a 20-year-old man who wants to join his friends when they swim in the lake near his home. So, he goes to the local pool to take lessons. Be prepared to laugh until it hurts!

And now it's competition time, so I hope you've listened carefully and made some notes! If you want to enter this month's competition, just go online and answer the ten questions in our quiz. Go to www.movies.com and select your answers.

Last month, we gave out free restaurant tickets as a prize – this time we're offering cinema tickets which you can use at a choice of exciting places.

You must complete your entry by May 28th. Make sure you've finished by 2:00 pm when the competition closes. We'll announce the winners on May 30th – and if you're lucky, the prize will be yours by the second week in June. Good luck and goodbye!

C. Listen to the passage and tell whether the following statements are true or false.(判断下列句子是否符合你听到的短文内容，符合的用“T”表示，不符合的用“F”表示)

Last summer I went through a training program and worked as a volunteer teaching people how to read. My first student Mary was a 44-year-old single mother of three children. In the first lesson, I found out she walked two miles to the nearest supermarket twice a week because she didn't know which bus to take. When I told her I would give her a bus schedule, she told me it would not help because she could not read it. Since she did not know words, she could not write out a shopping list. Instead, she only recognized items by sight. During the training, I tried to help learn how to build her confidence, which encouraged her to continue in her studies. She began to make great progress and was even able to take the bus to the supermarket. After this successful trip, she told me how self-confident she felt. At the end of the program, she began helping her youngest son with his reading. She sat with him before he went to bed and read bedtime stories. When his eyes became wide with excitement as she read, pride was written all over her face. As she described this experience, I was proud of myself as well. I found that helping Mary to build her self-confidence was very rewarding. I learned a great deal about teaching and helping others and I may have learned more from the experience than Mary did.

D. Listen to the passage and complete the following sentences. (听短文，完成下列内容。每空格限填一词)

Hello, everyone. Welcome to Alpha High for the exchange program. Here you can take part in some school activities. Now I want to tell you something about the clubs in our school.

Let's begin with our reading club. It started in 2010 and it has about 90 members now. Every Thursday afternoon, the members gather together to share their opinions on books. If you are a bookworm, the reading club is right waiting for you!

If you are a music lover, come to our music club. This club has a total of 85 members who usually meet on Saturday. Sometimes they go to the concerts together and sometimes they put on performances themselves.

For those who enjoy outdoor sports, the bicycle club can be a good choice. Trips and bicycle races are usually organized on Wednesday and last at least two hours. Together with 50 cyclists, you can not only see the beautiful nature, but also make yourself stronger.

The last club I would like to introduce is the environment protection club. The club was set up in 2008 and the aim of the club is to make our life greener. So every member of this club is supposed to take some action to protect our environment. In the club, you can plant trees on the farm not far from our school. It will tell you how to recycle the things around you, such as paper, water bottles, beer cans and so on.

Linda: Well, at 9:00 this morning, I was playing with Teddy in the garden with a ball, and all of a sudden, the ball went over the fence into the road, and ...

Jacky: Yes?

Linda: And Teddy jumped over the fence after it and he got hit by a car.

Jacky: Oh, no! And is he injured?

Linda: Yes, very seriously. We took him to the vet's immediately, but the operation wasn't successful.

Jacky: Oh, poor Teddy. And poor you. I know how much he meant to you.

Linda: We'd had him since he was a tiny puppy. He was like one of the family.

D. Listen to the passage and complete the following sentences（听短文，完成下列内容。每空格限填一词）

Can just one person make his neighbourhood a better place to live? In a community, every person is important, and it's not difficult to take part in some community activities. Once you see what you can do, you'll want to continue.

People often throw litter in places where there is already litter. The problem only becomes worse if we do nothing. If your community doesn't have a cleanup program, get together with friends to organize one. You could pick up rubbish in a larger area twice a year, or a smaller area every few months. Living in a tidy neighbourhood will be the best award for you.

Almost all neighbourhoods have a few people who have to stay at home because of some diseases. But they belong to the community, too. By letting them "borrow" your legs and eyes, you can bring them happiness. Governments provide some services these people need, but your help and care provide friendship; that's what communities are for!

Reading clubs are popular all over the world. Members might read alone at home to prepare for discussion, or they might read aloud to each other and talk about what they just read. Newcomers to the community can find new friends with similar interests. If your neighbourhood doesn't have a club, you'd better get the ball rolling.

Karen always complained about her house. One day I asked why she didn't look for another house. Karen answered, "I will look for another one when I come back from vacation."

Sam hated his job. However, he loved taking photos, and was taking a two-year course to get a certificate. Every day he complained about his work. I asked him why he didn't give up his job and start a business of taking photos. His reply was, "when I finish my course, I will start a business."

Harry worked for a company that allowed him to retire early, but at a reduced pension. Now Harry became very weak and found it difficult to deal with his work. I was worried about his heavy workload and its influence on his health. "Why don't retire, Harry? Do something that you want to do," I said. "If I were older, I would get my full pension." "When the next summer comes, maybe I will," Harry replied.

There is an old saying that says: "if and When were planted, and Nothing grew." A year later, Karen is still living in the house she hates. Sam is still complaining about his job and hasn't finished his course. Harry is still working and his health is even worse. These people had a lot of stress in their lives that they could have reduced. But all of them defeated themselves by thinking "if or when".

Life is too short for "ifs and whens". The next time you find yourself thinking "if or when", remember the saying; "If and When were planted, and Nothing grew".

When I was a child in kindergarten, I had to take a nap during school every single day. It was probably my least favourite thing about being in kindergarten.

But now as an adult, I love taking naps. Being able to relax and get some rest in the middle of the day is great! But attitudes toward naps are quite different when comparing the US and China.

In the US, taking a nap in the middle of the day is looked down upon. People who take naps are seen as lazy. You can even be fired from your job if you fall asleep at work.

But in China, taking a nap is just a normal part of the day. Some people even bring their own pillow to work for naptime. People in China have a much more relaxed attitude toward taking naps.

On one hand, it is true that you spend less time working or studying if you take a nap. There are also times when it isn't appropriate to take a nap. You don't want to fall asleep in the middle of an important meeting, or during a wedding.

But on the other hand, having a short rest can help you work better. A good rest can improve your mood as well, studies say. So why not take a nap during lunch break and make the rest of the day more enjoyable?

There are some new cups in the store. These cups are very special. They have a little porcelain(陶瓷) cat or dog at the bottom. You can not see it when you start drinking. After drinking at least a half cup of tea, you can see its little head.

Many people, especially kids and young people, love it. They think it's really cute. However, there are also some people who think it's strange.

"It's awful! Why would someone pour hot water over a cat's head?" says one of them.

Others think these cups will make people have too much sugary drink, and they don't even realize it. That is really bad for health.

Some people even complain that it changes the taste of tea to know there's a cat in it. That is quite terrible.

But as people show more and more love to pets, especially cats and dogs, pet products have become more and more popular. These cups still win the hearts of many customers.

Tony: I had poor eyesight when I was a little boy. I was very pleased to get glasses for the first time. I put them on and I really needed them. And another reason is that my cousin has had lots of eye problems and he is now blind in one eye. Last year, I asked him to go to a 3D movie to relax ourselves. He refused and said, "I can't go to the cinema because I need two eyes to see 3D." And that made me feel like I needed to fix people's eyes.

Jane: So are you doing things right now to help you prepare yourself to become a doctor?

leg really hurt. "How did you hurt yourself?" asked the doctor. "I jumped off a swing," said Nancy. "Is it broken?" "It sure is," said the doctor, holding out the X-ray. "See right here?" Two hours later, Nancy left the hospital on crutches. Her leg was in a cast. "What will I tell Ms. Chang?" she asked her mother in the car. Ms. Chang was Nancy's dance teacher. The spring dance performance was only two weeks away. Nancy's cast would be on for at least six weeks. "She's going to be mad at me!" cried Nancy. But Ms. Chang wasn't mad. She said, "We'll think of something." Nancy didn't want to go on stage with her crutches. "I look stupid and I can't with these," She complained. "Have you heard the expression 'The show must go on'?" said Ms. Chang. Together, they went through the show. They thought of how Nancy could move to the music. They thought of ways for her to dance on crutches. During the night of the performance, Ms. Chang almost had to push Nancy on the stage. Nancy's cast looked big and clumsy, but she went out and danced. In the end, the audience went wild clapping. Lots of roses were thrown to Nancy's feet! The show did go on!

This is a fantastic summer course. It's especially for the kids who would like to spend time on computer games in an air-conditioned room. You won't be playing computer games — this course teaches you to design them.

You will get the chance to learn from two top game designers, Molly and Wilson from the company Star Games. They will teach you how to use computer games and create games yourself. Sounds cool, doesn't it? Kids on the course will stay at a hotel with a gym, a great dining hall and of course, computers.

We've decided to increase the length of the course this year. Last year, it was twenty-five days, and this year the course is from July 15th to August 14th. So it's five more days than last year.

We only have places for twenty-two people. Please hurry up and book your place on the website www.teenagers.net! The cost is only $2,300! You can pay online. And please remember to bring a photo of yourself and your student card when you do come for the course.

C. Listen to the passage and tell whether the following statements are true or false (判断下列句子是否符合你听到的短文内容,符合的用“T”表示,不符合的用“F”表示)

Judy was moved by something very simple that her grandma did. She wrote Judy a letter. Listen to Judy talk about her grandmother's letter.

I don't hear from Grandma often because she doesn't have email or even a cell phone. I send text messages to stay in touch with my friends, but not to Grandma. I have my own web page and blog, but Grandma doesn't even have a computer.

Her letter was four pages long. It was beautifully handwritten and full of details from her daily life. She wrote about her new flowers she put in her garden, her weekly card games with friends, and how she took her cat Mimi to the vet. She asked me about my new job and wondered if I would have time to visit her.

For some reason, all of this moved me deeply. I imagined her in her kitchen at the table, taking time with paper and pen, addressing the envelope and buying a stamp. It made me feel that my life is moving too fast. I spend so much time looking at computer screens, video games, instant messages... It's a beautiful thing to sit quietly and write a letter to someone that's on your mind.

I sent her a card — handwritten — and told her that I'll visit her next week. I'd like to sit in the kitchen with her, and maybe work in the garden together. Her letter reminded me that being fast isn't always a good thing, and that being online doesn't always mean that you are connected.

D. Listen to the dialogue and complete the following sentences (听对话, 完成下列内容。每空格限填一词)

Mrs. Gray is unhappy about her son Tom's second-grade teacher. She has come to school to talk to the headmaster.

Mrs. Gray: Mr. Wyn, I have to complain about Mr. Phillips.

Headmaster: Mr. Phillips? He's one of our most popular teachers. What's wrong?

Mrs. Gray: He's going too far with his lessons about global warming and environmental problems! I mean, all my son Tom talks about is "saving the Earth".

Headmaster: Well, this year environmental problems are part of our science studies.

Mrs. Gray: Science is OK, but Tom now says that it's wrong to drive cars and use electricity. He's afraid we're damaging the planet every time we get in the car. He can't stop worrying.

Headmaster: Hmm. Well, that... does seem extreme.

Mrs. Gray: He used his own money to buy an energy-saving desk lamp! He didn't even ask my permission!

Headmaster: Well, the desk lamp seems like a good idea.

Mrs. Gray: It's nonsense! He keeps saying, "I have to fight for change!" But he's only 7 years old!

Headmaster: I don't think that environmental problems are nonsense.

Mrs. Gray: Scaring children and turning them against their parents is not a teacher's job. The world has lots of problems — war and crime and environmental problems. Children need to be protected from those things.

Headmaster: I know that Mr. Phillips is a very enthusiastic teacher and he likes for his lessons to be practical.

Mrs. Gray: Children are innocent! Tell Mr. Phillips to change his teaching or I will complain to the school board. This has got to stop!

Headmaster: Now really, Mrs. Gray.

D. Listen to the passage and complete the following sentences (听短文, 完成下列内容, 每空格限填一词)

A recent survey has found that British people complain more than any other European nation. 96% of British people said that they would complain if they receive poor service in a shop. The top four complaining nations also included the Germans, the Italians and the Swedish.

In the survey, shoppers across Europe were asked how often, why and when they complain. Shoppers who don't complain were asked why not.

The most common reason British shoppers give for a complaint is that the service is not good enough. If there aren't enough shop assistants or the queue isn't moving quickly enough, the British get angry. The British love a well-organized queue. When asked how long they queue before they get annoyed, they said more than five minutes was too long. Low-quality products, rude staff and delivery problems are also common reasons. 76% of British shoppers feel 'If customers don't complain, companies can't improve.'

For the few British people who don't complain, 42% don't have time, 37% feel it doesn't help and 31% feel too embarrassed.

Last summer I went through a training program and worked as a volunteer teaching people how to read. My first student Mary was a 44-year-old single mother of three children. In the first lesson, I found out she walked two miles to the nearest supermarket twice a week because she didn't know which bus to take. When I told her I would give her a bus schedule, she told me it would not help because she could not read it. Since she did not know words, she could not write out a shopping list. Instead, she only recognized items by sight. During the training, I tried to help learn how to build her confidence, which encouraged her to continue in her studies. She began to make great progress and was even able to take the bus to the supermarket. After this successful trip, she told me how self-confident she felt. At the end of the program, she began helping her youngest son with his reading. She sat with him before he went to bed and read bedtime stories. When his eyes became wide with excitement as she read, pride was written all over her face. As she described this experience, I was proud of myself as well. I found that helping Mary to build her self-confidence was very rewarding. I learned a great deal about teaching and helping others and I may have learned more from the experience than Mary did.

D. Listen to the passage and complete the following sentences. (听短文, 完成下列内容。每空格限填一词)

Hello, everyone. Welcome to Alpha High for the exchange program. Here you can take part in some school activities. Now I want to tell you something about the clubs in our school.

Let's begin with our reading club. It started in 2010 and it has about 90 members now. Every Thursday afternoon, the members gather together to share their opinions on books. If you are a bookworm, the reading club is right waiting for you!

If you are a music lover, come to our music club. This club has a total of 85 members who usually meet on Saturday. Sometimes they go to the concerts together and sometimes they put on performances themselves.

For those who enjoy outdoor sports, the bicycle club can be a good choice. Trips and bicycle races are usually organized on Wednesday and last at least two hours. Together with 50 cyclists, you can not only see the beautiful nature, but also make yourself stronger.

The last club I would like to introduce is the environment protection club. The club was set up in 2008 and the aim of the club is to make our life greener. So every member of this club is supposed to take some action to protect our environment. In the club, you can plant trees on the farm not far from our school. It will tell you how to recycle the things around you, such as paper, water bottles, beer cans and so on.

Can plants learn and remember? Joana of the University of Western Australia thinks so.

According to an article published in a magazine, Joana and her team did some tests on mimosa, a plant. As we all know, its leaves close quickly when you touch them.

In the experiment, they planted 56 mimosas in different pots. Then they dropped some water from a height of 15 centimeters. At first, each time they dropped water on mimosa, the plants closed their leaves. But in the end, the plants didn't close their leaves at all. It seemed that these plants of mimosa learned that the small drop wouldn't harm them.

Four weeks later, the team dropped water on the same plants. Surprisingly, the plants still didn't close their leaves. Did they remember their lesson before?

Joana isn't sure how plants learn and remember—plants don't have brains after all. But she thinks that they may learn and remember with some parts of their body, she told the magazine.

D. Listen to the dialogue and complete the following sentences (听对话, 完成下列内容, 每空格限填一词): (10 分)

 A: Great! How long is it altogether, Mike?
 B: It's about three or four miles.
 A: That sounds OK. So, we start here at the car park and walk along the path to the waterfall.
 B: Right. Then we turn left and walk up this small hill. The view from the top of the hill is worth the climb. We can eat a snack there.
 A: Then we will follow this path down the hill to the old church.
 B: We can spend a few minutes looking around the church. Then, we turn right and walk along this path.
 A: This path leads to the cave. Can we look inside the cave?
 B: Yes, we can, but it isn't very interesting.
 A: Then we turn south and come back to the car park along this path.
 B: That's right.
 A: How long do you think it will take us to complete the walk?
 B: I think it will take about ninety minutes, including breaks.
 A: That's fine. Are there signposts along the way, in case we get lost?
 B: Yes, there are. They tell us which way to go and how far we have to walk.
